As a key member of the North American executive team, Dave is responsible for all Supply Chain functions across the US, Canada, and Mexico businesses. Responsibilities include raw material sourcing, commodity risk management (corn and natural gas), agricultural product sales, energy supply, logistics, operations planning, quality, and customer service. Recently the role was expanded to include the North American Customer Experience strategy. Prior to his current position, Dave spent 22 years in production, most recently as Vice President, North American Manufacturing.
