

Ray Smith Bio

Ray Smith has been working in food industry quality and food safety leadership roles for over 38 years. The last 15+ years Ray has worked as the head of quality and warehousing at United Sugars Corporation. Along with his years of experience in both manufacturing food and supplying ingredients, Ray has achieved undergraduate degree in both Biology & Mathematics. As he moved forward through his career Ray has attained his MBA and a Master's Degree in Organizational Leadership.

Working closely with United Sugars Corporation's member sugar companies, third party transfer and liquid stations, warehouses, co-packers, and most of all customers, Ray continuously seeks to provide education and to implement processes aimed at improving food security, food safety, and quality programs.

Ray's additional responsibilities include corporate safety leadership and providing technical assistance to customers, working with all aspects of sugar handling and those opportunities and challenges sugar provides.